

Literacy Sponsor

Kris: So given this evolution and given your own prominence in the field, do you see yourself at this stage in your career as a type of literacy sponsor in terms of digital?

Gail: That's an interesting question that really is...I guess probably...yeah...I don't think I've cast it quite like that. I just see myself at a stage in my career...and Cindy and I were actually talking about this last night that we can sort-of do...probably as soon as I say this I have to knock wood a lot (knocks the table)

Kris: (knocks on table) knock on formica

Gail: But take part in those kinds of initiatives and ah start those kinds of initiatives... like with the National Writing Project um summer institute that we're going to do and the focus that's going to be there is going to be on technology as well, so um you know they'll hopefully end that four weeks in which they've actually done a video of their writing processes and this is also the kind of assignment I've been giving actually in my classes in the past...
